Integrating Companies House with business software

Companies House Integration

By integrating Companies House web services with your business software you empower employees to make informed decisions, gain another weapon against fraud and reduce your exposure to financially unstable companies.

Orbis Software and its global partner community have collaborated to deliver the drag and drop functionality you need to quickly and simply integrate with Companies House.

The Problem:

Companies House holds valuable data that can help employees make better decisions for your company. Unfortunately, many businesses don't access this data or still rely on employees to manually retrieve and process this data.

The Solution:

The TaskCentre Companies House Integration solution automates the flow of information between Companies House, your business software and your employees.

Verifying company registration data dynamically

Fraud is an activity that no company wants to be on the receiving end of. Yet, many companies either do not cross reference potential customers or trading partners with Companies House records or rely on the initiative of employees. It is a disaster waiting to happen.

TaskCentre will automatically cross reference company registration details with Companies House, update your business systems and highlight any disparities for further investigation.

Pulling down company reports automatically

Regardless of whether you're buying or selling it is important to understand the financial health of the company you are about to engage with. Knowing if the company has received director loans, made a loss or has a chequered financial history will significantly influence any decision you make.

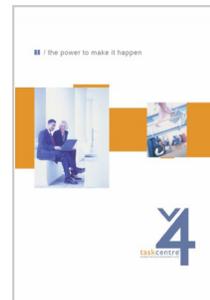

TaskCentre will automatically pull down financial information filed with Companies House and record that against the correct record within your business system. In short, TaskCentre reduces exposure to risk in times of economic uncertainty.

Pulling down director appointments dynamically

A new director appointment can change the way a business operates. Historical decisions and communication barriers can be cast aside and doors may open. For example, every IT solution provider would want to know when a new IT director has been appointed.

TaskCentre will automatically retrieve new director appointments from Companies House and update your business systems with this data, set an activity and notify employees (email/SMS).
